

Why isn't the Kindle eReader compatible with the library's eBook & Audiobook service?

Currently there is NO Kindle eBook lending platform available to Australian public libraries

Without it being available, we simply cannot offer such a service.

The owner of Kindle (the US company Amazon) currently does not allow Australian Kindle owners to access the few eBook/Audiobook lending services that Australian public libraries are able to subscribe to. The Kindle is a proprietary product sold by Amazon. It uses its own particular software & Amazon is keen for Australian Kindle users to purchase their books through the Amazon store. What is encouraging is that US Kindle owners can access eBook/Audiobook lending services in US public libraries.

We are hopeful that Amazon will modify its policy so that Australian Kindle owners enjoy the same benefits as US Kindle owners when accessing public library eBook/Audiobook lending services.

The eBook/Audiobook platform used by this library offers the largest selection of popular titles & is compatible with a very wide range of devices

The platform we have chosen is OverDrive and is used by thousands of overseas and Australian libraries.

OverDrive is compatible with many different eReaders, smartphones, tablets (including iPad and Android) as well as PCs and Apple Mac computers.

In the US, Amazon (the owner of Kindle) does allow Kindles to be used with OverDrive...however no such agreement is in place outside the US at present.

We have selected OverDrive in anticipation that Kindles will at some stage in the future be able to use the system in Australia too.

We sympathise with Kindle owners as we want to provide ALL customers with devices access to this exciting new service. However, on balance we have gone with the product that has the largest library loanable collection and can provide services to the widest number of devices & we'll be delighted when it also works on Kindles.

Want to give Amazon feedback about their Australian Kindle policy?

We suggest you email Amazon directly via this email address: kindle-feedback@amazon.com